PLANS FOR THE QUAKER DAM

SOME DEFECTS IN THEM POINTED OUT. THE MAYOR MAKES A STATEMENT WHICH SEEMS

To GIVE GENERAL SATISFACTION.

The Aqueduct Commission yesterday heard further objections to the Quaker Dam project. Assistant Corporation Counsel Lacombe said that there were two aspects of the case before the commission, the legal and the practical. The law required that the public should have an opportunity to be heard on the plan. He did not think it required that they should be heard on the specifications and estimates. Ex-Judge Armonx replied that the second section of the act provided that "the Commissioner of Public Works shall, under the direction of the Aqueduct Commission, as soon as practicable, after the passage of this act, submit to them the plan or plans, together with the proposed specifications and particulars relating thereto." Consequently the commission was not anthorized to proceed until he had complied with that provision of the law. Mr. Lacombe suggested that the Commissioners were the ones to determine whether they had the specifications, estimates and mass. TO GIVE GENERAL SATISFACTION.

whether they had the specifications, estimates and maps.

Commissioner Spencer—I am incidentally informed that the Corporation Counsel decides that we have sufficient to answer to the law for the purposes of this put lie hearing. My associates suggest that if you consider these plans and estimates imperfect, you should now point out the deficiencies, so that we may be able to conclude whether we shall have them amended.

Mr. Arnoux—We only claim that there are omissions, or it may be, clerical errors; but they are not perfect plans. I think they ought to show the length, breadth and depth of the different parts. Why should not the public be told the number of onlidings to be removed and the cost of things! There are gentlemen present here to-day who can point out more in the way of deficiencies than I can. You are required by another section of the law to have your maps so complete that the different pleces of real estate affected shall be laid out. You are to put the division lines down and you are to indicate what parts you are to have in fee.

William H. Webb—In regard to details, plans, specifications and estimates, I desire to say as a practical man, accustomed to estimates on large works in former years, that the plans, so-called, presented here, are not subjected in character or in detail to enable any respectable mason or builder, or one accustomed to contract for large works, to make a proper estimate for the cost of the work, I wish to put in my protest now and here against any decision on the part of the Commission that these plans are sufficient to obtain such estimates. If the Commission will give us time, there are gentlemen here to show us in detail where they are lacking. We have not come prepared to do that to-day, however. I characterize some of these as pictures, and are without scale or dimensions.

Thompson-Are you willing, Mr. Darragh, to state is wanted? What is wanted?

Mr. Darragh—I cannot state it fully. But I can state that so far as I have gone over them I have found them deficient in many things.

Mr. Darragh—We are making some sections not shown here. This plan, for instance (indicating) shows around but the lines.

Mr. Thompson—It shows all it professes to show.

Mr. Darragh—But it does not show anything that I can make figures upon. The small dams are not shown upon the plans at all. Now I propose to go up there, so that I can make an intelligent estimate. I propose to visit the site of this dam and examine the surroundings with reference to getting materials for the work and the place from which the materials are to be brought. I propose to do that at my own expense, and I shall be very much obliged indeed if the Commission will authorize some engineer conversant with it to accompany me. If that is destrable i will pay his expenses.

Mr. Arnoux thought that two or three days delay should be granted in which to make a thorough examination. He said:

The Commissioners cannot shirk responsibility.

Men were selected who the citizens believed would give honest attention to the matter, and determine according to their best judgment. The Commissioners are to decide the question. They are not to let others decide it for them. When it comes to veting, they cannot relieve their consciences by saying they voted on the determination of somebody else.

Commissioner Thompson—Well, I propose to decide it upon the opinion of engineers.

Mr. Arnoux—1: any man in office should violate his oath of office, he never would be excused before the law by saying that he did it because somebody else told him to do so.

Mr. Borealist.

Mr. Benedict opposed delay, expressing the belief that it was only suggested with a view to defeating the project.

Mr. Darragh—It seems to me that the gentleman has no right to impugn the motives of citizens as good as no.

Mr. Benedict began a long discourse, but was stopped by the Mayor, who remarked that the speaker was not giving information to the Commission.

Hon.

Edwin Glaskin—I do not see any diagram as to the train on the dam. It would assist engineers in the examination of the plans if the amount of pressure could amination of the plans if the amount of pressure could be shown.

Alexander M. Ross—I will ask whether the Commissioners are satisfied with the plans they have, and whether they are of such character as estimates can be invited and specifications prepared upon them?

Mayor Edson—It was never intended, it has not been supposed that the plans which you see here are technical plans upon which the Commission proposed to ask contractors to estimate for the work. These are general plans, and are made in order to enable the Commission to come to a general conclusion as to whether this aqueduct and this and should be constructed. Now, when the Commission have come to the conclusion, upon general principles, that this is the proper thing to do, process principles, that this is the proper thing to do, proin come to a general conclusion as to whether this aqueduct and this ann should be constructed. Now, when the Commission have come to the conclusion, upon general principles, that this is the proper thing to do, provided the ter-inical surveys and plans and estimates and specifications are such as these general plans lead them to believe they will be, then they will go on sud ask for the estimates upon the work to be constructed, and if the estimates upon the work to be constructed, and if the two structures will be built. Now I have thought of this matter a good deal within the last twenty-four hours, and I kad thought of it somewhat before. These hearings in the shape they are now going on are unsatisfactory, and if we should continue them for the next six weeks or six months, they would continue but as unsatisfactory. I shall suggest that we proceed in this way: We have the general plans, the general directions, size and style of the aqueduct from Central Park to the croton Dam. There does not seem to be any objection to that, so far as I know. None has been raised here since the dam. However, we have the general idea of what we want to do, and we have. I believe, a general idea of what we think would be best to do now; and that is to construct this aqueduct upon the general plan and over the route proposed. The next thing, in my opinion, that we should do is the pass a resolution giving the sense of the Commission that the aqueduct, as the plan and over the route proposed. The next thing, in my opinion, that we should histruct the engineers to prepare all technical surveys and maps required by law, the specifications and all that will enable us to get at the precise cost of the work and the contractors to estimate on it intelligently. Then we shall know ourselves just what the probable cost of the work will be, and if anybody wants to be heard he can be heard. We should proceed in precisely the same way in relation to the dam. I would suggest that we determine, upon the general plan and contractors to prepa

DEATH FROM HYDROPHOBIA.

DEATH FROM HYDROPHOBIA.

The death of a child from hydrophobia was reported to the Brooklyn Police and Health Departments yesterday. The victim was William Litner, age six, the son of Mrs. Mary Meddus, of No. 224 Union-ave., Brooklyn. About mine weeks ago the boy went to a neighbor's house, No. 211 Union-ave., and as he opened the door a savage dog belonging to John Van Brup' 1 colored occupant of the house, sprang out upon 2 m. The boy was bitten in a severe manner about the face, neck and arms. There were no suspicious that the dog was mad, and his vicious temper was put down as the cause of his attack upon the boy. The boy's injuries healed and nothing more was thought of the matter until last Monday. He was then taken sick and showed evident symptoms of hydrophobia, frothing at the mouth, barking like a dog and exhibiting great dread of water. Dr. Murphy, of Lorimer-st., was called in and pronounced it a case of hydrophobia. Nothing could be done to relieve the boy's sufferings, which lasted till Tuesday night, when he died. Dr. Murphy's death certificate gave the cause of death as hydrophobia and exhaustion.

THE GRAND JURY WANT MORE POLICEMEN. The March Grand Jury, Caleb B. Knevals foreman, were discharged yesterday by Recorder Smyth. Mr. Knevals handed in the presentments, one of which recommends an increase of the police force. Police Commissioner French and some of the officials of the Department were examined by the Grand Jury a few days ago. The presentment is as follows:

Is as follows:

The Grand Jury respectfully present to the Court that, after investigation and the examination of competent witnesses, we are impressed with the fact that the police force of the city, especially in the upper precincts, is inadequate for the proper discharge of the duties committed to the Department. We find that under existing laws inefficient and disabled men are retained upon the force with full pay. We recommend that immediate action should be taken toward changing the law, so that disabled men may be properly provided for, and their places on the active force filled by able-bedied men, and that, in addition to the increase thus effected, the present force be augmented by at least five hundred men.

WANDERINGS OF A FAMILY OF TARTARY.

Jacob Zapitch, his wife and two children, who were living in Tartary two years ago, upon the promise of the Jewish A.d Society to give them money to buy land and raming implements if they would go to Jerusalem and take charge of a branch of the society, went to Brode, Austria, and joined a large party of Hebrew refugees. Instead of being sent to the Holy Land they found themselves in Queboc, Canada, four months afterward. From there they were sent to farms in Dakota, and being WANDERINGS OF A FAMILY OF TARTARY.

At Pittsburg Zapitch became separated from his famn, and not being able to find them, he walked from there to New-York, and laid a complaint before the Commissioners of Emigration yesterday, who will investigate it.

SEMBLY INVESTIGATION. It was said by well-informed persons at Police Headquarters yesterday that in case of Superintendent Walling's retirement the Police Commissioners would either select some man outside of the department or promote one of the inspectors. The choice among the inspectors was said to lie between Inspectors Thorne and Murray. Inspector Dilks is regarded as ineligible on account of his advanced age, and failing strength, although his mind is vigorons. Inspector Byrnes, who has won a reputation for unusual executive ability by his management of the detertice force, wishes to keep his present place. "If the Police Board should appoint you without reference to your wishes, what would you do?"

"I would positively decline, if I could do that and remain in the department."

Mr. Walling went on Wednesday to his farm at Keyport, N. J., where he will rest for a few days. He has not made any promises to the Commissioners that he will retire.

He has not made any promises to the Commissioners that he will retire.

The Commissioners had a long consultation with Inspectors Thorne, Byrnes and Murray yesterday, concerning the testimony which is to be taken today by the Assembly Investigating Committee.

Was learned, but the committee had sent subponas to a number of lottery, policy and fare gamblers. Among the witnesses who are expected to testify to-day are Marcus Cicero Stanley, F. E. Luthey and Jacob Shipsey, well known policy backers, "Al" Adams, the reputed proprietor of the gaming-house at No. 102 West Thirty-second-st., and other fare-bank keepers. President French said that if the committee sought information from known violators of the law, their course might well be construed as a direct insult to the Police Department.

Thomas and George M. Randall, resigned yesterday without apparent cause, and it was said that they expected to be witnesses before Mr. Roosevelt's —HER ASSAILANT'S APPEABANCE.

The trial of Jesse Williams, the colored man, who is charged with burglary, assault and grand lareeny, committed in the Sloane apartment house, in West Thirty-second-st., was begun yesterday before Recorder Smyth in the Coart of General Sessions. The prisoner, a mulatto, about twenty-one years of age, listened unconcernedly to the testimony. Gertrade L. Ash, who is indicted on the same charges, was also in the court-room.

Miss Maggie Harvey told in a low voice the story of her experiences on the night of March 8. Sine is the sister of Mrs. George H. Sloane, and she lived with her sister. The family occupied one of the apartments on the fourth floor of the house owned by Mr. Sloane's father, who has a large store on the ground floor. Mr. and Mrs. Sloane, the witness said, left the house at about 8 o'clock, leaving her with a servant and an infant child. The servant, Gertrade L. Ask, teitred a few minutes before 10 o'clock. The witness continued:

I was lying on my side with my back toward the closet. I was lying on my side with my back toward the closet. I turned my fleed about and saw a man come out of the closet and approach the bed. He struck me in the face and said, "Il kill that baby if you don't keep it still." I tried to quiet it. Then the man setzed me by the throat and dragged me out of bed. He threw me on the floor, but keep thinself behind me so that I could not see him. He tied my hands behind me and gaged ine with some kind of a cloth. Then he asked me if Mr. Stone had returned. I told him he had not come upstairs. He then asked me where the keys were kept, but I told him I did not know. He drew me toward the door into the hall, and then I fainted.

The witness identified a pair of overshoes belonging to her sister, and a handkerchief belonging to herself. She said that at first she thought that her assailant wore a mask; but she identified the prisoner by his size and his voice.

Mrs. Sleane testified that when she returned home at about 10:30 p. m., her foot struck against some object in the hall, which she found to be money. Her suspicions were aroused, and she went into her sister's bed-room, and found her unconscious on the floor. The dining-room was in confusion.

The faces of the drivers of the new cheap cabs are almost as bright as the yellow and black bodies of their vehicles as they gather in their harvest of quarters and half dollars. The experiment so far has been successful and the drivers appear to be well satisfied, although they have to pay the combany $3 50 a day for the two-seated cabs, and $4 for the four-seated. The company assert that this is only a fair price and that the men make good wages over these figures. There has been little interference with them by the old cabmen, although one of the new drivers was arrested yesterday at the instance of the "regulars" for driving without a license. When he was taken to court, it was pointed out to Justice Power that the company had a permit for the cabs pending the decision of pointed out to Justice Power that the company had a permit for the cabs pending the decision of the Mayor as to whether he can grant the license, and the prisoner was discharged. There are twenty of the cabs now at work, and five more will be put on the streets within a few days. The company proposes to build twenty-five English hansom cabs a second as possible. It is expected that they will be finished in about two months.

"There is no doubt now that the system will be a success," said Assistant Manager Hanly. "The rate paid by the men is sufficient to pay the company, and they appear to be well satisfied with their earnings. Just as soon as the demand warrants it more cabs will be added to the service."

Bockelman's counsel said that he had received a letter from his client, who was in the Eastern District of the city, and ready to attend the trial.

Charles Lewinsky has begun a suit in the City Court against John Leverisch to recover $370, which he alleges that the defendant was to pay him as a commission for securing the defendant a "well-built, handsome, and young wife." It is asserted that Leverisch agreed to pay $100, or in the case the woman had money to pay 10 per cent of her property besides. The matrimonial broker eays that he carried out his part of the bargain, and secured a woman with property worth $2,700, and he now seeks his fee. Leverisch did not marry the woman.

Kensico.—In the plans for obtaining water for the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards it has been found necessary to divert the head waters of the Byrum River, at a cost of about $700,000, and it will be necessary to negotiate with about 100 owners of property along the river's bank in Connecticut. The total cost of the new supply, including reservoirs, pipe line, right of way, water rights, etc., will be about $3,500,000, and it would cost over $2,000,000 to obtain less than half the supply by trusting to the resources of the Bronx River alone.

FAILURE IN THE COTTON TRADE.

Just as the doorkeeper of the Cotton Exchange took down the gong from its nail, at one minute to 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, to announce the official clesing, a messenger handed to the acting superintendent a communication from James F. Wenman & Co., No. 146 Pearl-st, announcing their suspension. General astonishment was expressed, and ind the failure been announced fifteen minutes earlier it would have created excitement. Mr. Wenman explained afterward that the suspension was due to the failure of his customers to respond to the calls for margins. What the habilities are Mr. Wenman was unable to estimate, but he was premaring a stationent he said, which would be submitted to the creditors, and he hoped a settlement would be made that would enable the firm to resume business. The I abilities to members of the Exchange are said to be comparatively small, and $10,000 probably will cover them. Among the members of the Exchange much sympathy was expressed for the embarrassed firm and assistance was offered.

The house is one of the oldest in the cotton trade, and was established by Mr. Wenman in 1841. The firm now consists of James F. Wenman, James W. Wenman, a son, and Abram Allen, a son-in-law of Mr. Wenman. It has done a large and conservative business; but of late the business has been mostly in a commission line, the firm doing nothing on its own account. Mr. Wenman was one of the original members of the Exchange, naving been elected its first vice-president on August 15, 1870, and president in 1876 and 1877. He is also largely intercested in and is the agent of the Excessor Lifectaring (arronnent, of which Fitz John Porter is the business manager. Just as the doorkeeper of the Cotton Ex-

INSURANCE NEWS AND INCIDENTS.

It is not unusual for large lines of insurance from England to be placed in New-York insurance companies. Yesterday a line of this sort on the lotteniam dry goods house, Tottenham Court Road, London, was placed through the brokerage firm of Anderson & Stanton. The amount of risk covered was $200,000, and the rate about 50 cents. Several large city domoanies wrote liberal policies, and the line went in larger slices than it would have done if it had been on property in the dry goods district in this city.

The Reading Insurance Company, of Pennsylvania, will re-enter New-York, and John Mulville, of No. 155 Broadway, will be appointed it New-York City agent.

The proposed fire insurance patrol service for Brooklyn seems to have failen through. Fire underwriters are not united as to the manner of conducting and maintaining the patrol, and the quibble will probably centime long enough to render legislation at this session of the Legislature impossible.

THE WHOLESALE PRICE OF MILK.

The scale of prices for milk at wholesale which was recently agreed upon by committees of the producers and the milk dealers went into effect Tuesday. The price set for April was 3 cents, and that appears to be generally satisfactory. The members of the Milk Exchange seat notices to their dairymen Tuesday that they will pay the price, 3 cents, for this month's product. The quality of the milk coming to market is generally good, though there is good reason to believe that some of it is skimmed before being sold. The fact that a few dealers project against the agreegate fact that a few dealers profest against the aggregate price fixed of 40 cents for the year will not be likely to cause a milk war. he farmers have made arrangements to sustain the price by keeping their surplus milk in the country, should the production exceed the demand.
